San Juan, Puerto Rico 1 2 March 7, 2018 3 At or about 9:30 AM 4 5 THE COURT: And so again, buenos dias. Good morning. 6 Welcome to counsel, parties at interest, members of the 7 public, the press, and those observing here, and also 8 telephonic participants. It is, as always, good to be back in 9 San Juan, especially when it's snowing in New York. 10 As many of you know, the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York is closed today due to 11 12 the weather in New York. Because of this unusual situation, the Court has granted the attorneys who had planned to speak 13 14 from the New York courtroom live telephonic participation 15 lines. 16 And so I'd ask those attorneys who have live lines to 17 mute their telephones. If an attorney wishes to speak, the 18 attorney should notify the Court by raising their virtual hand 19 on Court Solutions. 20 And I remind you that consistent with court and 21 judicial conference policies and the Orders that have been 22 issued, there is to be no use of any electronic devices in the 23 courtroom to communicate with any person, source, or outside repository of information. And no use of any devices to record any part of the proceedings by any observer or

And so the electronic devices, if you have them, must be turned off unless you're using it to take notes or refer to notes or documents already loaded on the device. And all of the audible signals have to be turned off.

And so with that, I would ask Mr. Bienenstock to begin with his status report.

MR. BIENENSTOCK: Thank you, Your Honor. Good morning.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. BIENENSTOCK: Martin Bienenstock with Proskauer Rose for the Financial Oversight and Management Board, for itself and as representative of the Title III debtors.

Your Honor, the status report this morning is in respect to the financing situation at PREPA, and the factual information that I'll be reporting is based on information I've received from PREPA as of last night. And I guess it's more good than bad.

Had this hearing been earlier, I would have told the Court that there is a probability that PREPA would file a motion by the end of this month, probably by about March 28, seeking approval of an additional 250 million dollars of financing, probably framed as a refinancing of the entire debt. So it would be 550 million, with 300 million refinancing the last installment. And we would have asked the Court if it were possible to have a hearing the weeks of April 16 or April 23rd, because the likelihood of needing the money would be toward the end of April.

What I can report this morning is that what was a probability a short time ago is now a possibility, but it's less than 50 percent possibility, because collections at PREPA have been above the projected projections, including collections of pre-hurricane electric bills.

So the probability at present is that PREPA will have money to get itself into at least early May. And if that is the case, we will advise the Court, or we can advise the Court and the parties in interest, either at the March 27 hearing that Your Honor scheduled in respect to the Electric Commission motion or earlier by an informative motion. And we would be able to put off the filing of the motion and the requested hearing date to sometime probably in May.

Now, by putting this off, because of additional funds that had not earlier been projected, we think there is also an increasing possibility that by that time, we may have a CDL, a community disaster loan. That does not come without its own complications, because the loan might be to the Commonwealth. It might have to be loaned over to PREPA, but it would be outside money.

Because of all these variables, Your Honor, it's not possible for us to say now what the terms of any of these financings might be. So it could still cause us to ask the Court to approve priming liens, or super priority liens, or both, or not, depending on the financial situation and where the money is coming from. But that is the situation that we know as of now, Your Honor.

So to recap, by the end of March, we can certainly tell the Court whether we'll be requesting a hearing in April. We think that's not likely, but it still is a possibility, so I don't want to take it off the table. And otherwise, we believe we'll be filing a motion sometime in April requesting a hearing in May for further financing.

THE COURT: Well, I'm glad to hear of the increased collections and the longer period of time the existing financing is expected to last. I would ask that you cue up the motion practice as soon as you are able to make a definitive motion, so that we don't have the issues with compressed briefing schedules and documentation arriving late and changing that complicated the situation last time.

So as far as you are able, please seek to do it on what would be a more normal time frame of a couple of weeks notice out to opposition. If that's at all possible, I think that would be appreciated by everyone and would make for some fewer transaction costs in some ways, possibly more in other ways.

And I should let you know that to the extent you are thinking about a May application, I think it is between something like the 17th and the 22nd of May, I will not be available to preside over a hearing. MR. BIENENSTOCK: We appreciate that information, Your Honor. And we'll definitely try to file a motion at the earliest possible time so that -- as soon as we know what the terms of the deal are. THE COURT: Thank you very much. MR. BIENENSTOCK: Thank you, Your Honor. THE COURT: The next item on our agenda is the report of the fee examiner. Is Mr. Williamson here? Good morning. MS. STADLER: Good morning, Your Honor. My name is Katherine Stadler of the law firm Godfrey & Kahn. Mr. Williamson is here today, and he has a few brief remarks he'd like to make, but first I wanted to personally present to the Court the report that we filed last week. Before I do anything else, I want to correct a couple of errors in the report, for which I apologize to the people affected. The first error was that the law firm of Cancio Nadal Rivera & Diaz, which is referenced on page 18 and 19 of the report, is improperly indicated as counsel for the Oversight Board. They are not counsel for the Oversight They are counsel for AAFAF. O'Neill & Borges is Board.

their application has been set over for consideration at a later date. Again, I apologize to the parties affected by that mistake. We're here to present a group of first interim fee applications covering the beginning of these cases in May through September, 2017. We are recommending that the Court approve the applications with the adjustments outlined on Exhibit A to the summary report. I have with me today a proposed Order and an Exhibit A that contains a few revisions from the version originally filed with the report. I would say they are nonsubstantive revisions. And I have all of those to hand up to the Court if you would like. We also submitted those electronically yesterday. Our -- sorry. THE COURT: So you filed a Proposed Order yesterday? MS. STADLER: May I ask my Puerto Rico counsel? THE COURT: I would appreciate that. MS. STADLER: A courtesy copy was served yesterday. THE COURT: All right. So I should -- so it's not on the public docket for everyone, but it will be in my electronic inbox? MS. STADLER: It should be, Your Honor. And the master service list received it as well.

THE COURT: All right. Very good. And I have a nod from those near me who know.

MS. STADLER: Okay. We were trying to coordinate with your chambers to do that the right way, so I hope we succeeded.

Our fee review process has been outlined in some detail in the report, which we filed last week. And I don't want to waste anyone's time repeating what is in the report. As the report states, the fee examiner has negotiated reductions to some of the fee applications before Your Honor today, and believes that the fees outlined on Exhibit A to the report and to the Proposed Order are reasonable and necessary, as those terms are used in sections 316 and 317 of PROMESA.

We are happy to answer any questions Your Honor might have about the report, about our process or anything else. If the Court does not have questions, Mr. Williamson just has a few words he'd like to say.

THE COURT: I do have a couple of questions, and they tend toward the major conceptual, but I think they're important in light of the major conceptual types of issues that were raised in the report.

And so first, the report indicates at a high level that there were negotiations, and obviously there are some reductions that are reflected in the proposal.

Can you give me a bit more color as to the nature of issues that were identified and the principles upon which issues regarding those sorts of matters were resolved, and a sense of whether the fee examiner has some confidence that there have been changes in methods that we can anticipate going forward?

MS. STADLER: Okay. Yes, I can do that.

We issued letter reports to all of the retained professionals consistent with the Amended Interim Compensation Order that Your Honor entered late last year. The professionals then had approximately two weeks to review those reports and respond to us with additional information, additional documentation, answers to questions, receipts. And that began a rather significant dialogue between our office and the various professionals.

A lot of it was education, the professionals educating us, the fee examiner's counsel, about some of the unique facets of this proceeding, helping us to understand the legal and procedural context, and providing information that alleviated some of the fee examiner's initial concerns just by virtue of a better understanding of the process.

There were also issues identified though that are discussed in the report that were more conceptual and global in nature. And the primary one, as highlighted in the report, is the issue of attendance. The number of attorneys appearing at hearings like this one today and at the mediation sessions, which are significant and take a lot of time.

That attendance is of great concern, not just to the fee examiner, but I believe to the Government of Puerto Rico as well, because ultimately they're paying the bills. And so what the fee examiner has sought to do is advise the professionals that on a going forward basis, his recommendation will be, absent some additional information shown, that the parties speaking at a hearing, their time will be compensable, and one supporting person for that person speaking will be compensable. And that, all other professionals in attendance from a given firm will need to have a showing made in the application itself of why that person's attendance was necessary, either in court or at the mediation.

There will be departures from that rule. There have been departures from that rule. As you know, many of the firms here today have multiple speakers and multiple support people. We have reviewed transcripts and pleadings and talked to the professionals to understand.

Obviously many of those hearings were very substantive in nature and required a lot of people. And so those exceptions were made to our rule and those adjustments that are in the report reflect accommodations made to professionals.

The other note I would make in that regard is that the fee examiner was appointed on October 6th. This time frame of billing ended on September 30th. So the professionals had not been on notice yet of the fee examiner's appointment and what his general approach would be. We took that into consideration when discussing this first interim fee application with professionals.

The fee examiner is well aware that people can't comply with rules and expectations if they don't know what they are. And so we have used — the fee examiner has used this first interim fee application process primarily to educate and begin a dialogue with professionals about those expectations and what the necessary showings will be to deviate from those expectations in the future.

We are relatively confident, based on our conversations with the professionals, some of which are ongoing, that they understand the fee examiner's concerns, that they share the concerns, they share the concern about the appearance, as well as the substance of the way this case is managed and run, and how much it costs.

To continue that dialogue, we are this afternoon after court adjourns here holding a brief informational session at a local firm here in San Juan, and it's really basically just a Q and A with the fee examiner, his data specialist, and me. And we will be available to answer questions.

We'll have a really brief presentation about our process, but primarily the purpose of the meeting, and it's an open session, everyone is invited, is to answer your questions and talk to professionals about the fee process in general, or specific questions they have about individual fee guidelines and issues.

There are many other guidelines that the fee examiner has issued. They're outlined in the memorandum that he issued to professionals on November 10th. I could talk about all of them in great detail, if any of them particularly interests you, but for purposes of this first interim fee period, I would say getting a handle on the staffing issues, which is evidenced by the hearing attendance, has been the primary focus of the fee examiner process.

THE COURT: Are there any other of the many other issues that you would anticipate focusing on in particular going forward besides attendance and --

MS. STADLER: Yes.

THE COURT: -- staffing in general?

MS. STADLER: Yes. One of the things that is always difficult in taking on an assignment like this is the ability to understand on the part of professionals that the purpose of the fee review and the purpose of the guidelines is not just so that we, as fellow lawyers, can read the application and understand what work was it that was being done, but that anyone opening up the record and pulling a fee application out can understand what the professionals were doing and verify that the time has been recorded accurately.

So many of the guidelines that are in the U.S.

Trustee guidelines, they're in some of the local rules in bankruptcy courts around the country, and they are in place here, are viewed as overly technical and burdensome by some professionals. For example, the requirement of recording time in tenth of an hour increments.

You can imagine when people are working as fast and furious as they have been on these cases, it's sometimes hard for people to stop what they're doing and contemporaneously record their time in tenths of an hour. We understand that.

We face the same pressures in keeping our own time.

However, in this case more so than any other Chapter 11 that the fee examiner has worked in, he feels it's very important that those rules are followed more closely and are honored more carefully than they might be in a Chapter 11 proceeding involving a private enterprise.

The transparency issue is of paramount importance. So the ability of anyone who wants to pull out a fee application and look at a bill and make sure attorney A and attorney B are both attending a meeting for the same amount of time is important, and it's more important here than it is elsewhere. So that type of issue.

The other issue that I would say pops up a lot is the task descriptions. Many of the professionals in this case have used very general terms in their billing: Review pleadings, prepare for mediation, draft mediation statement. And then, you know, large chunks of time assigned to some of those tasks.

We flag those entries as vague or requiring more detail and ask professionals to not only provide more detail to support the existing application, but to use more detail in the future. And the professionals generally are willing to accommodate that request. That requirement, too, they view as burdensome. But I think everyone is pretty much on board with the notion that they need to describe their activities with detail to allow the same transparency that we've been discussing this morning.

The response that we've gotten from many professionals is the confidentiality and secrecy -- not just of the financing terms and that sort of thing, but of the mediation process and what is being prepared on what topic and by whom, to be presented at the mediation sessions.

We've been in touch with Judge Houser. We have spoken to her not only about that particular issue, but just in general about the management of counsel and attendance at mediation. And I think it's on her radar. It's on our radar.

And our advice to professionals going forward is that for the fee examination purposes, disclosure of detail about work performed in preparing for conducting mediation will be kept confidential by our office. It will not be disclosed outside of our office.

The fee examiner Order has a confidentiality provision in it, and we have taken the additional step at the request of Judge Houser to put in place the Protective Order that provides an additional level of detail and assurance about our confidentiality obligations.

Professionals can, from the fee examiner's perspective, subject to the Court and the United States

Trustee's preference, submit redacted invoices with their publicly filed applications. And we ask that they include the missing detail from the redacted invoices when they send us electronic data. Many professionals have agreed with that in concept. I think there's still some resistance to the idea of that strategy, and detail about the discussions that are ongoing could inadvertently be disclosed through that process.

So I would say those two issues are probably our major guideline issues that are identified in the report that we're working through with that education process, and getting the professionals comfortable with our ability to honor our confidentiality obligation, and getting them to understand that this is more than whether I can read a bill and see what's going on or another attorney could, but whether a member of the public could read the application and understand why these cases require such an enormous amount of effort on the part of so many professionals. THE COURT: And with respect to those confidentiality issues, the balance runs more toward your being able to fully read, understand and advise the Court appropriately with the protection as -- against the world and the general public of the use of redactions in public filings? MS. STADLER: Correct. THE COURT: Thank you. MS. STADLER: You're welcome. Thank you. Mr. Williamson has a few words. THE COURT: And thank you for your work. MS. STADLER: Thank you, Your Honor. MR. WILLIAMSON: Good morning, Your Honor. Brady Williamson. THE COURT: Good morning, Mr. Williamson. MR. WILLIAMSON: With respect to professional fees and expenses, PROMESA, like Chapter 11, imposes burdens all the way around. It imposes burdens on the Court. It imposes burdens on the professionals. But these are burdens with a The purpose is accountability, transparency, purpose. efficiency. Now, we're doing this, all of us here for this part of the hearing, because Congress mandated in 316 and 317 this kind of diligence, this kind of scrutiny. But even if 316 and 317 did not exist, the extraordinary circumstances presented by these proceedings would require some form of sophisticated, detailed and difficult review.

This is our first report. And Ms. Stadler explained some of the factors that went into our approach to this first report. It won't be the last. We view the process as iterative and incremental. We'll get better at it. The professionals will get better at it. And their clients will get better at understanding the need for discipline, efficiency and effectiveness in the assignment of professionals.

The cycle, as the Court knows, will occur every four months, give or take. I can promise the Court and the professionals that our reports will get shorter, to be sure, not 26 pages, but less. But the standards won't change. They can't change.

The number of skilled and gifted professionals in this case is really quite remarkable. And when, of course, I use the term professionals, I don't just mean counsel, I mean the financial advisors, the accounting firms, the consulting firms. Their services, as we say in the preface to the report, are absolutely essential to the island's recovery, and prospectively to its economic health.

The skilled and gifted professionals who work with the Court and everyone on the island are entitled to be compensated fairly, at market rates, as long as their services are reasonable and necessary to the estate.

Let me end, Your Honor, just by highlighting two points in the report that we might benefit from a little bit of guidance from the Court informally or formally.

The first is the particular challenge presented by McKinsey's work. It appears to be very high quality work, but because of their internal system, put bluntly, they don't keep time like Mr. Bienenstock's firm keeps time. So that makes our job difficult, because there are no objective metrics.

And we suggest to the Court that there are two possibilities. One is simply for the Oversight Board, which receives McKinsey's work product, to, in a word, vouch for McKinsey. The other possibility is for us, under the Court's ultimate supervision, to work with McKinsey to provide some form of metric.

And again, it's something that we think needs to be addressed because of the importance, and quite frankly, the expense of McKinsey's work and its importance to this whole process.

The second --

THE COURT: Are you -- I'm sorry.

MR. WILLIAMSON: -- and last issue has to do with our authority to review pre Title III work. In other words, work that anticipated Title III, or work that preceded the engagement or contract between the entity and the professionals.

The way the Order is worded, we don't think we have the authority to look at that. We're certainly willing to look at that, but it may well require an amendment. I suspect there won't be an objection, but it may well require a formal amendment to the Order appointing the fee examiner.

THE COURT: Well, these are both very important issues. It sounds to me as though you are in the process of discussion of refinement of the issues and exploration of potential solutions.

And so do you anticipate that you will make an application to me that may or may not be contested, recommending an approach to these issues, or if it's to be contested, in which those advocating for the different approaches can make their positions clear to the Court?

Because, you know, I could freestyle and give some advice, but I don't think that would be appropriate or efficient at this juncture.

MR. WILLIAMSON: Yes, Your Honor. In the same fashion that Mr. Bienenstock was kind enough to give you a heads-up on issues that might be coming down the road, these two certainly would be included in them. They don't in any way affect our process going forward. But those two issues

1 made this very first report a little short of complete --2 THE COURT: Yes. 3 MR. WILLIAMSON: -- for those reasons. 4 I want to add, in closing comment, one point. I said 5 the process was incremental and iterative. We found without 6 exception that counsel for all parties were open, available, 7 willing to engage in a constructive dialogue. And I think 8 that's one reason that we were able to present -- we are able to present an Order that is consensual without objection. 9 10 THE COURT: Thank you. Now, I understand that a representative of the United 11 12 States Trustee had wished to be heard. Ms. Lecaroz. 13 U.S. TRUSTEE LECAROZ ARRIBAS: Good morning, Your 14 Honor --15 THE COURT: Good morning. 16 U.S. TRUSTEE LECAROZ ARRIBAS: -- Judge Swain, court 17 staff, everyone present. Section 316 of PROMESA authorizes 18 the United States Trustee to review and to comment on all 19 professional fee applications for reasonableness and 20 necessity, similar to the United States Trustee's role in 21 Chapter 11 cases. 22 Given the historic scope and scale of these Title III 23 proceedings, the United States Trustee sought and the Court appointed, with the parties' consent, a fee examiner to review 24 25 professional fees in a robust process, similar to that followed in some of the largest and most recent Chapter 11 cases.

The United States Trustee concurs with the findings and recommendations of the examiner's report. Our independent review identified essentially the same major deficiencies that the fee examiner has highlighted in his report, particularly, overstaffing, duplication and vagueness. We share the fee examiner's expectation that these deficiencies will be significantly reduced in future applications.

If these deficiencies recur, additional reductions will be sought in future applications. We will continue to monitor future applications closely and reserve all of our rights to object as necessary or appropriate.

The fee process has already enhanced compliance and should continue to do so in the future. The fee examiner's report does not cover one-third of the fees sought by the applicants, consideration of which has been deferred. The United States Trustee reserves his rights with respect to those fee requests.

Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you.

This is a very good start to a process that will be long and complicated and is essential. The Court reviewed the report carefully and has listened very carefully to everything that has been said here today, and the Court is prepared to approve the Proposed Order that is consistent with the examiner's initial report. But I do wish to add my voice to the sentiments that have been expressed about areas of concern.

The eyes of history are on all of us. The lives of the people of this island and the future of every stakeholder is bound up in everything that we do. And so the careful use of resources in working through these unprecedented and highly complex problems is essential.

And from my perspective, over the past ten months, I have, as you know, reviewed a lot of pleadings and submissions. And frankly, a good proportion of what I've received has been duplicative in many ways. And I've also worked in -- particularly in the past, not so much today, so this is a good sign, in courtrooms packed with attorneys who have traveled to and attended proceedings in which only a handful actually argued or participated.

I am keenly aware of the unprecedented practical and legal circumstances facing the highly-talented professionals who are doing essential work in these PROMESA cases. There is an extraordinary amount of work that has to be done. But the cases are really only in their infant stages, and the people of Puerto Rico simply can't afford to spend billions and billions of dollars in professional fees.

And so in further aid of and support of the remarks and principles that have already been shared, I remind counsel that listen-in arrangements are available through the telephone service provider, and that counsel will be permitted to speak from a remote courtroom, unless there's a snowstorm with no remote courtroom, whether it's in San Juan or New York.

I would also encourage counsel to strive to collaborate early enough in briefing motions so as to be able to avoid duplicative briefing of issues. And frankly, that helps to conserve my limited resources as well, and helps me to move through issues faster.

And if the expectations of the fee examiner and the United States Trustee as to changes in patterns of behavior are not realized and there continue to be significant issues of overstaffing or overattendance, the Court's attention will be on those as well. And the Court will make any further adjustments that may be required.

So with that, I will track down the Proposed Order, and I will enter it after this hearing. The fee examiner's application, as detailed in the report, the attachments and the revised Proposed Order for resolution of the fee applications that have been filed is granted, with certain of those applications being carried over to the April Omni, as detailed in the report.

And so give me just one moment, because I have to get

So will you -- I'm just thinking in terms of logistics and housekeeping. enter an Order that terminates this motion in anticipation of inclusion of the stipulation in the next Omnibus? Would that be consistent with your plans? MR. GROVAS PORRATA: That would be consistent. MS. PEREZ: Yes. Yes, Your Honor. I will do so. Thank you both very much. THE COURT: MR. GROVAS PORRATA: Thank you. THE COURT: The next contested agenda item is the motion of the PBA Funds for payment of rent. Is there a time allocation agreement? MR. POSSINGER: Good morning, Your Honor. Possinger from Proskauer Rose on behalf of the Oversight Board. Your Honor, we've engaged in some discussion with the committee and with the movants to see if there's a resolution possible with respect to item number two and item number three. What I suggest is we defer items two and three to the end of this call, and then possibly take a short recess to see if a resolution is possible. THE COURT: Very well. Mr. Peck, are you agreeable to that proposal? MR. PECK: We are, Your Honor.

Just to put this in context, when we arrived this morning, we were presented with a form of Order that includes some language that may be a basis for resolving this on a consensual basis. But we're going to need some time to explore this with our clients and other parties in this case, and we appreciate you accommodating that time that's needed for these purposes. THE COURT: Very well. Thank you. I look forward to hearing further developments. Thank you, Your Honor. MR. PECK: MR. POSSINGER: Thank you, Your Honor. THE COURT: And so I believe that takes us to item four, which is the Unions' application regarding the employment grievance procedures. And if you'll just give me a moment to catch up with my paperwork, I'd be grateful. All right. I am ready. MR. BARRIOS: Good morning, Your Honor. Jose Luis Barrios, in representation of the American Teachers Federation as agent of Asociación de Maestros de Puerto Rico. MS. LEVINE: Good morning, Your Honor. Sharon Levine, from Saul Ewing Arnstein & Lehr on behalf of AFSCME. THE COURT: Good morning. MR. DECHIARA: Good morning, Your Honor. Peter DeChiara from the law firm of Cohen Weiss & Simon, LLP for the Service Employees International Union and United Auto Workers

Union.

THE COURT: Good morning. So do you have an agreed time allocation or will you start with a status report?

Because I did receive a partial stipulation, so I need to know what is still at issue.

MR. DECHIARA: Your Honor, I may need as little as two minutes because we have a proposal to the Court as to how my two clients would like to proceed, or I may need more time if I end up arguing the merits of the motion. So that's the situation that my two clients are in.

THE COURT: So when you say you have a proposal to the Court, is this something that your opponents have not agreed to at this point?

MR. DECHIARA: They have not agreed or disagreed. We are presenting it to the Court for the first time now. And if I may, Your Honor, I could explain. I think it's -- I don't think there'll be an objection. Let me put it that way.

THE COURT: It was -- I think you know my normal requirements, and my procedure is that before anyone asks me to do anything, you talk to your colleagues to see whether there's agreement to it first.

I'm rapidly running out of agenda items to bypass, so why don't you announce the proposal and then have your -- then confer on it.

MR. DECHIARA: Thank you very much, Your Honor. My two clients, the SEIU and the UAW filed a joinder for the motion that was filed by the other two unions, the American Federation of Teachers and the American Federation of State, County and Municipality Employees.

But unlike those two other unions, my two clients have decided not to enter into the stipulation with the Commonwealth settling the motion. We're -- as I said, we're prepared to argue the motion today, but we would propose an alternative course of action.

In response to the motion, the Commonwealth represented to the Court that it is willing to allow prepetition grievances to proceed to resolution, with one potentially large exception, that being prepetition grievances that the Commonwealth determines may affect the fiscal plan or the Title III cases.

What my clients propose to do is have the hearing on the motion adjourned to some date in the future to be determined. And the reason we propose that is it would allow my two clients to see, in fact, how things play out, how the Commonwealth performs under its stated position, whether it, in fact, allows the prepetition grievances to proceed, how many it stays, which ones it stays, et cetera.

And by allowing my two clients the opportunity to see how this actually plays out on the ground, that would inform my clients' decision about whether, and if so, when we would even need to come back to the Court at some future date on this matter. That's my proposal.

THE COURT: Before you huddle, I just observed that it seems to me that the stipulation that was proposed by the other parties makes a very serious attempt to put flesh on that, what started out being a fairly vague and general reference to things that might be a problem in relation to the fiscal plan.

And so it offers particular procedures and puts issues in particular buckets. So it seems to me, to make it clear, that normal, every day individual issues are generally not going to be impeded. An action that seeks to have a statute declared unconstitutional is something that will have higher transactional costs. And then there are some things in the middle.

Why wouldn't it make sense to proceed under that more defined structure, and then to the extent you have particular issues about how things that are being impeded are playing out, discuss them with AAFAF and with your co-movants and perhaps make a subsequent application to the Court, rather than putting this over in a completely undefined landscape?

So I guess I'm engaging in these discussions, too, but I don't understand what's better about leaving the landscape wide open.

Mr. Friedman.

1 MR. FRIEDMAN: Your Honor, Peter Friedman, AAFAF. 2 THE COURT: You need to go to the microphone because 3 there are listeners --4 MR. FRIEDMAN: Sorry, Your Honor. Peter Friedman, of 5 O'Melveny & Myers on behalf of AAFAF. That encapsulates my 6 It would be unfair to the Commonwealth to have thinking. 7 effectively a bifurcated process, where on the one hand it's 8 going through a mechanism that's been very painstakingly 9 negotiated over the course of months, and then a free-for-all 10 on the other side. That's just not an acceptable proposal to 11 the Commonwealth. 12 We are willing to permit parties to join into the 13 stipulation. We welcome parties joining into the stipulation 14 so that there's an orderly process. There are defined 15 limitations to when items have been stayed. I'm actually 16 happy to argue the merits if we have to as to why a 17 free-flowing motion should be denied, if that's the path 18 counsel chooses to go down. But certainly from a voluntary 19 perspective, a two-path divergent process just doesn't make 20 sense for the Commonwealth. 21 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Friedman. 22 Ms. Levine. 23 MS. LEVINE: Your Honor, very briefly. Annette 24 Gonzalez, president of AFSCME's local SPU is in court, along 25 with some other representatives. It's extremely important to us that regardless of what Your Honor does, alternatively, and we're not taking any position on that, that the stipulation that was basically a hard-fought negotiation be entered today if possible, because one of the things that the Order entering that stipulation provides is that this starts immediately. And one of the things that this stipulation does for us is it moves forward with some of our most difficult, currently not moving grievance and arbitration procedures, particularly for people who are out of work. And if we can start that process and get those people who are wrongfully terminated back to work, that becomes extremely important for us. And another delay in that process would be something that's very difficult for us. THE COURT: And so you're asking that at a minimum, I consider the motion resolved as to the signatories, and then the only question would be argumentation of the motion if the SEIU and UAW are not willing to sign on at this point, that would be dealt with separately? MS. LEVINE: Yes, Your Honor. THE COURT: Thank you. Thank you. MS. LEVINE: MR. BARRIOS: Your Honor, counsel Jose Luis Barrios. Just for the record, AFT joins in the AFSCME proposal. THE COURT: Thank you. MR. DECHIARA: Your Honor, Peter DeChiara. Just to be clear, the UAW and the SEIU do not object to the stipulation that was entered into between the Commonwealth and AFT and AFSCME. Those two unions made a decision, which we respect, that the stipulation made sense for their unions.

But the leadership of the two unions that I represent made a determination that the stipulation was not appropriate for the membership of their unions. And the reason was -- was because the stipulation at its heart -- it's true, it's a long, complicated document and has lots of parts. But at its heart, what it preserves is a very, very broad, undefined category of cases or prepetition grievances that the Commonwealth, through its own determination, can block simply by determining or stating that it believes that they -- that those grievances effect, in some undefined way, the fiscal plan or the Title III cases.

No matter how minimally, no matter how indirectly, the Commonwealth can just freeze some sizable, potentially sizable group of grievances. For that reason, the leadership of my two clients decided it would not be appropriate to enter the stipulation, but we are in no way objecting to the stipulation that was entered between the two parties that chose to enter it with the Commonwealth.

THE COURT: Well -- I'm sorry, Ms. Levine.

MS. LEVINE: Your Honor, recognizing that concern, the goal of the stipulation was actually to provide that the stay does not apply with regard to the discipline and discharge cases, except with regard to the prepetition claims, which will be part of the petition claims process. But going forward, people can be reinstated and/or get whatever wage relief they can get.

With regard to the exception, which is a very limited exception, with the negotiations with AAFAF and through the procedures that we think we've been able to codify, the goal is that most of the arbitrations will proceed. And to the extent that there is a rare circumstance where it appears that a grievance arguably interferes with the fiscal plan, that not the local lawyer responsible for litigating the particular grievance, but AAFAF itself will give a formal notice to the CBA parties in the stipulation. And that we will have the ability to come before Your Honor with AAFAF consenting to an expedited stay motion subject, of course, to Your Honor's calendar, to resolve that issue.

So the goal and the hope is that the concern is alleviated both through the representations and the negotiations we have had with AAFAF, that things will now proceed smoothly and quickly, and with a very quick expedited resolution process in the event that somehow or another the agreement is misinterpreted.

So for our purposes, again, we would still ask that the Court enter the stipulation and Order approving the

1 stipulation today. Thank you. 2 THE COURT: Thank you. 3 Mr. Friedman. 4 MR. FRIEDMAN: Peter Friedman. Just to be clear, 5 Your Honor, we're sticking by the stipulation. We're not 6 saying -- we're not backing off in any way. Ms. Levine has 7 correctly characterized the way we intend to work. As Your 8 Honor knows from our monthly reporting, it's very rare that 9 you will actually have a matter that gets into stay 10 litigation. Almost everything goes forward. Obviously if there are consequences in the fiscal 11 12 plan, just like -- and AAFAF legitimately believes there's an issue, it would be completely inappropriate for an arbitrator 13 14 to assert jurisdiction over a fiscal plan issue. We'll use 15 that judicially and intelligently where it's a real issue, 16 Your Honor. 17 We're not going to come before the Court on an issue 18 that I think you would find objectionable, or you may overrule 19 us obviously. But again, we're not going to come to this 20 Court on a frivolous basis and try to block an individual 21 worker's right to a grievance process. 22 If there's an issue that's legitimate, we'll raise 23 it. And that's how this process is intended to work. We want the stipulation to go forward. As mentioned, if there's a need for us to argue the merits as to why the two unions that have not joined have completely failed to meet the Sonnax factors on an individualized basis for their grievances, we are happy to do that.

Again, we remain willing to include anyone that wishes to -- for the Commonwealth, I'm speaking for the Commonwealth. There may be other parties or other entities, but from the Commonwealth's perspective, we remain willing to extend the stipulation to other unions.

THE COURT: So let me ask you this: Is it operationally feasible for you to follow the stipulation for AFT and AFSCME grievances and arbitration procedures, and not -- and do something else or whatever it is you're doing for SEIU and UAW people and --

MR. FRIEDMAN: I think it will be logistically very difficult to try to deal with these two free-floating systems that may involve different kinds of litigation schedules, instructing people at the Puerto Rico Department of Justice and constituent component units that have to deal with two sets of standards. Like I said, we spent a lot of time trying to make this work.

THE COURT: Yes. So --

MR. FRIEDMAN: And I'm sure they will see it in the bills Mr. Williamson reviews. It was a lengthy process. But it was done well.

THE COURT: Yes. Well, what I'm going to ask you to do is during the break, have a serious, good faith, offline discussion among all of you and see if you can come to a global agreement to follow these lines, and get Mr. DeChiara and his client to a point of comfort that the exception is both narrow and one that is designed to bring attention to the issue at the highest level in an efficient way, in a way that's clear. If you cannot get to that resolution with Mr. DeChiara, I will hear argument from Mr. DeChiara and AAFAF on what remains contested as between those two entities in respect to the motion, and I'll decide the motion. But if that can be avoided, that would be good. MR. FRIEDMAN: Okav. THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Your Honor. MR. FRIEDMAN: THE COURT: Thank you. MR. BARRIOS: Your Honor, very briefly. THE COURT: Yes, sir. MR. BARRIOS: Jose Barrios on behalf of the AFT. just want it clear that as Mr. Friedman says, this stipulation, if entered today, would open all the grievance procedures for all members of the unions, and that would be our intent and the intent that we discussed with AAFAF. MR. FRIEDMAN: Peter Friedman. Your Honor, the stipulation will do what it says, which is begin the grievance process moving forward. Obviously, as AFT and AFSCME knows, there's going to be a process where AAFAF and us need to confer with all of the relevant counsel who deal with these circumstances so they understand exactly what we need to do. And we're committed to moving that protocol along quickly as well.

So we made an agreement. We will live by it and expedite the process of getting the people who handle grievances in a position to handle them pursuant to this protocol when it's entered by this Court.

THE COURT: Well, for clarity from me, I find the proposal of AFT, AFSCME and AAFAF acceptable in the stipulation, and I would enter the stipulation, if necessary, only as to persons represented by the people who have -- the entities that have agreed to it.

If the UAW and SEIU, after the consultations, still don't want to sign onto it, I will hear argument as to whether the stay applies at all, hear whatever argument there is on the legal issues, and I will resolve it. It could be that I resolve it by finding that the stay applies but that it should be lifted to a limited extent. And that limited extent might end up looking a lot like the stipulation. I don't know because I haven't heard argument yet. And so -- but that is a possible outcome.

MR. FRIEDMAN: And, Your Honor, that would be an FRIEDMAN: Thank you, Your Honor. THE COURT: Thank you. All right. So there is one matter left on first call, which is the Commonwealth's lease assumption motion concerning the facility used by the police department. And Mr. Mercado-Mandry made an application just before the hearing today to appear by telephone, which is unusual, but given his pro se status and the fact that I had allowed some lawyers to have live lines this morning, I granted it as a courtesy. And I will make his line live shortly as a speaking line. But I do want to emphasize for him that in the future, the expectation for everyone who wishes to speak in a hearing is that they come to a courthouse, either here or in New York, and that they file a notice of their intentions in accordance with the procedures. And so I will first have argument for the movant, and then a response from Mr. Mercado, and then any rebuttal that may be necessary. And so we can make Mr. Mercado's line live.

            MR. BARAK: Good morning, Your Honor. Ehud Barak from Proskauer Rose for the Oversight Board itself and as a representative of the Title III debtors.
            Next on the agenda is the Commonwealth's Motion to assume the police department shooting range lease for use of the property which I understand includes the use of a lien and enjoyment rights under the civil code of Puerto Rico.

The motion was timely filed on November 29, 2017 in accordance with this Court Order at ECF number 994. The motion meets the standard for assumption of lease on restriction 365 of the Bankruptcy Code incorporated into PROMESA by Section 301.

Your Honor, the case law makes it clear that the only issue in a motion to assume the lease or accept the contract is whether the assumption is an exercise, a valid exercise of the debtors' business judgment. We cited the In Re: BankVest Capital case. It was affirmed by the First Circuit. And it states that under a motion to assume, the only issue properly before the Court is whether the assumption or objection of the subject contract is based on the debtors' business judgment.

Here, Your Honor, the lease provides significant benefit to the Commonwealth. It provides grounds for the Commonwealth to train its police force. The lease runs until 2021. And the price for the lease is one dollar a year. So obviously the Commonwealth is getting a very good bargain here. Therefore, the assumption of the lease is clearly a sound exercise of the debtors' business judgment.

The only responsive documents to this motion were filed by Mr. Mandry, who is not a party to the lease.

Mr. Mandry argues that he could potentially have a property interest over the premises if he is successful in annulling several unspecified agreements for fraud and conspiracy.

Mr. Mandry made those accusations in various courts, including before this Court. I think the District Court has even dismissed one action, albeit without prejudice.

In his pleading, Mr. Mandry also requested certain documents in his pleading. The Commonwealth, to the extent those documents were handy and were not -- and were not public, provided those documents to Mr. Mandry.

Importantly, none of the pleadings filed by Mr. Mandry challenged the assumption of the lease or the debtors' business judgment in assuming the lease.

To the extent Mr. Mandry nonetheless seeks to block the assumption of the shooting range lease, we think his pleadings are flawed for a few reasons. The first one, Mr. Mandry lacks standing. Mr. Mandry -- only direct parties to a contract can challenge the assumption or rejection of a contract under Section 365.

Your Honor, we've cited the In Re: ANC Rental

Incorp. case and the In Re: James Wilson Associates case.

Both of them were relying on the First Circuit case In Re: Dein Host, which held that only the contracting parties have standing.

Mr. Mandry does not claim to be a party to the contract and, therefore, lacks standing. As I mentioned before, the only issue before the Court is the debtor's business judgment. Mr. Mandry does not attack this business judgment, and thus the allegations are simply irrelevant, the allegations he makes in this pleading.

I would just mention, Your Honor, that this is not the appropriate forum to adjudicate these kind of allegations, and nothing in this Proposed Order prevents Mr. Mandry from bringing such complaint in the appropriate forum. So even if Your Honor enters the Order, nothing prevents Mr. Mandry from going on with his claims against third parties basically.

THE COURT: And that is something that I do want to be clear about. Your Order doesn't ask me to rule on the validity of the claim of title by the people who are signatories to those agreements. You are simply asking to be able to continue whatever rights you have under the lease.

And to the extent Mr. Mandry wants to attack the validity of that lease against the Casals and other parties to that lease, or attack the chain of title that led to them having the property, I'm not being asked to rule on those issues at all.

MR. BARAK: Absolutely, Your Honor. And we made that clear to Mr. Mandry, that this motion was brought because of the Code. And if we don't make a positive motion to assume, it will be rejected. We're only trying to preserve the status quo. We're not trying to make Your Honor rule on who has title to this plot of land.

THE COURT: Thank you. You may complete your remarks now.

MR. BARAK: I'm actually done. If Your Honor has any more questions, I'll be happy to answer.

THE COURT: No thank you. I have no more questions for you at this point.

Mr. Mandry.

MR. MANDRY: Hello, Your Honor. Javier Mandry-Mercado on behalf of myself.

There are several issues to what the movant is talking about, but I think I will address the most important one, which is the one that I did not present directly. This was — this would actually be the core issue. And I contend that the government is acting against its own best interest and that that assumption — assuming that contract will go against the state's ability to repay its debt.

And the reason I say that, Your Honor, is because I have -- the information that I have is that that one dollar -- I forget what it was -- it was a one dollar annual fee. Even though it appears to be a good contract, I have information that -- to prove that this contract was actually an illegal transfer of debt which arose from a case between the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and Eduardo Mandry for things that -- I'm not completely certain of every detail of this case, just about some things that happened that he did.

And so the person, the lawyer representing the state,

I contend that she didn't act at arm's length reaching a certain agreement that went against the state's best interest.

I'm sorry.

So this is the course that I can now -- let's just say I have a -- if I were to buy a lottery ticket to say that this is what happened, I would purchase it. And the reason is because I know how the people that are behind it work. And I would not have done it otherwise. It's just something I understand, the issue.

And regarding the standing issue, there's -- I filed a claim that I have standing in one, third-party standing, just -- I think that alone, even though just the fact that I can claim that I am a prior owner and there's some issues, are even probable -- it would give me standing to that.

And the other one would be that I, as a citizen of Puerto Rico, and a seeker of transparency, which is not only what the Court wants, but I believe what Congress -- the intention that it has to pass the PROMESA case in the first place, because of an overall lack of transparency. So I contend that there's a lack of transparency with this transaction.

And so -- and there is something, the fact that all the automatic stays from the people -- I have concerns that I would like this Court to revisit. And there's a parallel issue. It's that the definition of who the debtor is, the debtor -- well, the debtor being the Puerto Rico creditor. And the people are being considered creditors in all the automatic stays, even though they're not creditors at the time that this might be the case.

But I think that the -- there's an overall problem with the definition of creditor, between that and the fact that the liability of the bond fund companies that are -- let me repeat that, the bond fund companies, the ones that are really the liability owners.

And I suggest that the fact that -- considering seriously the creditors that violate our substantive due process rights, to be able to reclaim certain rights, inalienable rights from the state, which are services they're supposed to provide. So that's regarding the standing.

There is a supplemental issue that would be -actually, that's how you call it. It's a subsidiary or supplemental jurisdiction regarding what is that first course, the part that I haven't -- I haven't commissioned and cannot know the interest that this case would have had in the first place to go into that contract.

So the -- just the fact that I have that, that means it would make this conversation, this assumption issue, it would moot it. It would be moot. So I would -- I think it's hundred percent certain I have the information that leads to a lift of any property interest that the state -- I have information that there's a process to have the Court obtain authorization for the legal sale, because I was a minor. And because that did not happen, even they were saying that everyone would have to be a party, a party to my request.

I'm not destroying anyone's rights. I'm actually creating them. So there -- I would point out that to determine the jurisdiction at this point would not be timely.

THE COURT: So --

MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: And the third allegation, which is following that, would be that I also have information that the deeds that entitled Eduardo Mandry the right to be able to enter into that contract, that it's annullable as well, because the comments are annulled.

And as far as I know, he never paid me anything. So value leads the contract to be null, and these to -- excuse me. I need some water. I stutter a bit. Yes -- to third parties as good faith. See, the owner of this property is the Municipality of Ponce, and because it was -- I can prove that they're not a third party of good faith, and the fact that they're not in good faith and entering into a contract where the other party is in good faith, there's something that that goes back to. The issue of me having standing over the

1 matter. THE COURT: And I have read, Mr. Mandry --2 3 MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: Yes. 4 THE COURT: I have read very carefully the written 5 submissions that you have made in which you have raised your 6 issues about the transactions when you were a minor, and about 7 issues of potential fraud with respect to this lease. 8 don't need to repeat them, because I have studied your papers 9 quite carefully. 10 MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: Okay. I understand. THE COURT: So is there anything further that you 11 12 wanted to say before I let Mr. Barak respond? MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: Well, just to clarify that the 13 14 core topic is one that I never brought it up before. It's one 15 that I actually thought about just yesterday. And so that's 16 something that I just -- I think this Court should consider, 17 the fact that it's actually going against the interest of 18 Puerto Rico. And it's against their capacity to pay just in 19 the manner that it took -- there was a transaction from that 20 case, and they transformed it in a certain way that it -- that 21 it ended up as a rental. And a rental which is one dollar per 22 year, which is -- it's obvious, it's more than obvious that 23 that's not the real value. So there --24 THE COURT: Yes. Thank you. 25 MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: -- I would propose that there would have to be some discovery to -- so that this would be But the fact that there is that other issue of annulment, even though it's not within the narrow guidelines of this Court, I suggest that it should be supplementary in an adversary proceeding, because the one thing would annul, would move the other --THE COURT: Thank you. MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: It renders it moot. THE COURT: Thank you. MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: So --THE COURT: Thank you. I think I do understand your argument in that regard. And so thank you, Mr. Mandry. Mr. Barak. MR. BARAK: Yes, Your Honor. Ehud Barak for the Oversight Board and for the debtors. I think most of Mr. Mandry's argument is outside the scope of the motion. As we made clear, nothing in this motion would prejudice him in bringing any complaint that he wants to bring with respect to the ownership of the title to the lot. If Your Honor has any questions for me about the Motion to Assume itself, I'll be happy to answer. If not, I will rest. THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Barak. I did read very carefully all of the submissions in advance of today, and I have listened carefully to everything that has been said in connection with this Motion for an Order Authorizing the Assumption of the Agreement with Eduardo Jose Mandry-Mercado and Lucia Casas Casal pursuant to Section 365. And the motion is at docket entry number 1881.

The only opposition has been filed by Mr. Mandry from whom we have heard on the record today. And the core issue raised in his paper submission is that he alleges that there was fraud and there were due process violations in prior transactions and Commonwealth court proceedings over the past three decades, leading up to the agreement that the Commonwealth now seeks to assume.

In his oral argument today, he also asserted that the -- there is some corruption underlying the particular lease, and that it is not a good business decision for the Commonwealth to assume the lease.

For the following reasons, Mr. Mandry's objection is overruled. His request for discovery and request that he be permitted to commence an adversary proceeding in this Court for adjudication of his issues regarding the underlying ownership of the leased property is also denied. And the Court grants the Commonwealth's Motion for Approval of the Assumption of the Lease.

Section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code, which is made applicable to these Title III proceedings by Section 301 of PROMESA, provides that subject to the approval of the Court, a debtor may assume or reject any executory contract or unexpired lease of the debtor subject to curing defaults and providing assurance of future performance.

Courts generally defer to the debtor's business judgment when determining whether the assumption of an executory contract or unexpired lease is appropriate under Section 365(a) of the Code, and the Court will not substitute its own judgment for that of the debtor. See the Orion Pictures decision at 4 F.3d 1095, page 1099, a 1993 decision of the Second Circuit.

The debtor has demonstrated and affirmed to the Court that in the debtor's judgment, assumption of the agreement is in the best interest of the Commonwealth because it will provide the police department with continued access to the property for at least three more years at the stated cost of a dollar per year, and that access to the property will assist in the training of the police force.

Mr. Mandry has suggested that that is a decision that he wouldn't make, but it is the decision that the Commonwealth has made and the Court accepts it. The lessors did not object. No other party to the agreement objected to the proposal to assume it.

Mr. Mandry's objections on the grounds of ownership rights in the property and transparency as to transactions are not ones that establish that he has standing. And indeed, they are not ones that indicate that his ability to pursue those positions in a proper forum, a court of jurisdiction over those issues, would be affected.

The Court's approval of this lease assumption motion does not affect the current title to the property, and it will not prejudice any rights of Mr. Mandry in pursuing his arguments.

The transparency argument that he has made is not one that is relevant to the narrow issues under Section 365, and the parties who have rights to raise issues under 365, and the generalized notion that citizens have the right to object to and raise barriers to decisions by the debtor by virtue of their general citizenship is not an appropriate ground for recognition of standing either.

Mr. Mandry has not demonstrated that he currently has a legally recognized title interest in the property. And so his argument that he believes he can prove ultimately that he is an owner of the property does not give him standing to oppose the lease assumption motion at this juncture.

And this Title III bankruptcy proceeding is not a proper forum for litigation of his dispute regarding the validity of the lessor's title to the property.

Therefore, to the extent he seeks relief from the Court concerning those matters, the requests are denied without prejudice to any proceedings he may wish to pursue in a Commonwealth court of competent jurisdiction concerning title to the property.

And so I will finish my ruling, and then I understand Mr. Mandry raised his hand. But first I will finish my ruling. I will enter an Order overruling the objections and granting the motion to assume the agreement.

Mr. Mandry, you had raised your hand on the virtual screen.

MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: Yes. And I understand your ruling, but I do have one thing to add on that issue, that the Order -- Puerto Rico, to its situation, it specifically -- I confess that it's the lack of transparency in these type of actions that are better for -- that there are state actors acting behind the state to accumulate debt. And that debt will be passed on to the citizens in the form of taxes and increased cost of living.

So I just -- I really -- I think I speak from the heart and try to represent obviously a million people that are -- that the state is not representing in its part in my opinion. But I really think that there is a problem, because it -- the state is not acting properly. And I'm doing what is correct for the people who will be the ones who will suffer from the debt.

Then not considering us as part interest in this agreement would be -- I don't know. It's troubling. But the state would be acting against the best interests of its creditors and of its people. So I really -- I just wanted to say it from the heart, because I really feel it's an issue that has not been addressed. So that's what I wanted to say.

Thank you, Mr. Mandry.

And I have made my ruling on this motion. The issue of transparency and effects of lack of transparency in the past, and the people's confidence in the government going forward are clearly very important issues that surround and infuse in many ways these proceedings. And they are ones of which the Court is mindful.

I took your arguments into account in making my ruling on the legal standards that apply to this ruling. And so that will stand. And I thank you for your participation today.

MR. MANDRY-MERCADO: Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you. And so at this point, since we have matters that have been deferred to second call after a conference, would a break of 20 minutes be appropriate or should we take an early lunch break and come back in an hour?

MR. POSSINGER: Your Honor, Paul Possinger again for Proskauer Rose. I think an hour break would be appropriate. So if that means lunch, then so be it.

THE COURT: Well, it's whatever people want to do in their hour. So let's reconvene at 12:30. That will make it an hour and five minutes. Use those extra five minutes well. MR. POSSINGER: Perfect. Thank you, Your Honor. THE COURT: Thank you. (At 11:22 AM, recess taken.) (At 12:52 PM, proceedings reconvened.) THE COURT: Buenas tardes. Please be seated. MR. DECHIARA: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Peter DeChiara for the Service Employees International Union and the United Auto Workers Union. Your Honor, I'm pleased to inform the Court that the parties have reached an understanding as to how to proceed. And if the Court will allow me, I'll read our understanding into the record. The UAW and SEIU will not ask the Court to hear or decide today the merits of the motion of AFT and AFSCME that they have joined. AAFAF, AFT and AFSCME do not object to this. The Court will approve the stipulation today, but only as to AFT and AFSCME. Even though UAW and SEIU do not join the stipulation and have not signed it, the Commonwealth states its intent to apply its terms to the UAW and SEIU for a period of 60 days. If the UAW and SEIU determine during this 60-day period that they will not sign the stipulation, either or both may propose to the Commonwealth, AFT and AFSCME that the stipulation be revised to address their concerns, or request that the Court rule on the merits of the AFT and AFSCME motion as originally filed and as supported by any additional filings that any of the parties may make with respect to that motion. And so I'm glad to hear that there's this THE COURT: interim resolution. Are you asking that I carry the --MR. DECHIARA: The joinder. THE COURT: -- your part of the motion to the April calendar or what do I do logistically? MR. DECHIARA: Your Honor, it would be our preference to allow our joinder to remain on the docket, but we would proceed as indicated by what I read. THE COURT: And so then you can -- it's for 60 days, so maybe you'll give me a status report at the June Omni? MR. DECHIARA: That would be fine. THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Friedman and Ms. Levine. MR. FRIEDMAN: Peter Friedman from O'Melveny & Myers on behalf of AAFAF, Your Honor. First of all, this is consistent with our agreement. Second, I want to thank in particular AFT and AFSCME and its lawyers for working with us very hard to get to this point. And I want to say that this resolution certainly of the agreed-to stipulation is extremely important to the Governor -- the Governor himself, as well as the government. It represents the debtor being willing to modify the stay and the process in a really important way out of respect for the working men and women of Puerto Rico who are public employees in order to move on in the grievance process. And we're quite pleased with this outcome and resolution. And I hope that we are able to even move further on down the road with the rest of our public employees. THE COURT: I'm glad to hear this. Thank you, Mr. Friedman. Ms. Levine, would you like to speak? MS. LEVINE: We'll take yes for an answer. THE COURT: Very well. And so I will enter the stipulation as proposed today. And so that leaves us with the PBA Funds and lease extension issues. Where do we stand? MR. POSSINGER: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Paul Possinger from Proskauer Rose. Your Honor, we have reached an agreement with respect to an Order on the PBA Funds' motion which seeks either payment of an administrative rent claim to PBA or allowance of an administrative rent claim in favor of PBA. And the Order will address the latter, if not the former. The language is a little convoluted at the moment, so I've been designated scrivener, hand writing in these changes.

I think it might be prudent to let me finish that, have everybody sign off. And I think, you know, with ten minutes or so I can get that done, and then I can describe the changes on the record. THE COURT: That's fine. And then as to the lease extension motion, is that something that's being resolved consensually in relation to that as well? MR. POSSINGER: The parties who have either filed the PBA Funds motion or joined the PBA Funds motion are the only parties that have filed anything with respect to item number three on the agenda, the 365(d)(4) motion. And this will also resolve any response in opposition to that motion, and it can just be granted. THE COURT: And I'm sorry, I mischaracterized. the extension of time to assume or reject the lease. MR. POSSINGER: Yes. And it would be for all debtors, only leases in which PBA is the purported landlord, and that extension goes to July 25th. So we'll be back at the July Omnibus presumably with a similar motion. THE COURT: Very well. So do you want to take a ten-minute recess, and then we'll come back, or should I --MR. POSSINGER: I think we should do that. language has been subject to some scrutiny. I just want to make sure we get it right. Maybe 15 minutes. THE COURT: All right. So let's plan to -- we'll plan to reconvene at 1:15, and I will send a scout out at about 1:14 to find out if everybody's ready. MR. POSSINGER: Thank you, Your Honor. THE COURT: All right. Thank you. (At 1:00 PM, recess taken.) (At 1:29 PM, proceedings reconvened.) THE COURT: Please be seated. MR. POSSINGER: Your Honor, once again we appreciate your patience. I think we have been able to finalize the Order. THE COURT: I'm not sure if that's this computer singing. There you go. It always happens when we try to facilitate a resolution. Will you read the Order into the record or --MR. POSSINGER: That's going to be difficult, because I think what you have is a markup of a clean version that itself was a markup. So the Proposed Order that was actually filed with the motion was black lined, then hand marked up. So what you have is the ultimate hand markup without the lining. So to navigate both from the podium might be difficult. But the parties have all agreed upon the language as I wrote it up on that clean version, and so what we suggest is we will submit that on presentment. THE COURT: Very good. And so Mr. Peck, will you confirm that you are -- you have no objections to the form or substance of this Proposed Order?

MR. PECK: Your Honor, I confirm that we've been involved throughout today's hearing in active, arm's length negotiations over language designed to resolve the motion brought by the PBA funds. We are satisfied that the language which reflects a major compromise, I might add, of positions on the part of all parties fairly reflects the understandings reached.

And we appreciate the patience of the Court and the involvement of all parties at interest at getting us to what we think is an effective resolution of this dispute that avoids conflict on the record and that preserves rights.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. PECK: Thank you.

THE COURT: Yes, Mr. Friedman.

MR. FRIEDMAN: Your Honor, Peter Friedman from O'Melveny & Myers on behalf of AAFAF. Mr. Mayr, who represents the QTCB noteholders, asked me to make the following statement, which is accurate, which is that AAFAF and QTCB, as well as other parties, have agreed in form to a forbearance agreement on behalf of PBA itself.

We are hopeful that we will be able to bring all PBA creditors who have filed a motion or joined into litigation over this into the forbearance agreement, which would resolve as well that debtors are engaged in a resolution of this motion from the debtors' side, but also enable PBA to enter into a resolution of the issue of its creditors, or at least a forbearance agreement with the creditors from the PBA side, which we also think would be a positive agreement. Thank you. And so Ambac had joined the THE COURT: motion, I believe, trying to keep track of everyone who's filed papers. So basically, if there is anyone else -please, Ms. Miller, come to the podium. And so do you have any objections in form or substance to this? MS. MILLER: We have no objection in form or substance. We were also actively involved in the drafting and negotiations of the proposed decree, Order and have no objection. Thank you. THE COURT: And so is there anyone else who filed papers in connection with either agenda item two or agenda item three? MR. PEREZ-OCHOA: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Eric Perez-Ochoa on behalf of National Public Finance. We also join Ambac's joinder, and in form or substance do not have major objections to the Order that will be presented. THE COURT: Thank you. the Motion for Repayment of Rent. And so will you also in the final version, will there be some reference to the extension of time to assume or reject, or do you plan to submit a different Order on that? MR. POSSINGER: The Proposed Order that we filed with the motion should be sufficient, but we can send that to chambers clean as well. And we'll circulate that among the parties to make sure there's no issue, but I don't believe there's going to be an issue. That is simply for PBA leases, there will be 120 days, roughly 120 days extension to July the 25th. THE COURT: I think you said the 27th, actually. MR. POSSINGER: I was thinking because July is the seventh month -- but July 25th. THE COURT: All right. Whichever date it is, I would be grateful for resubmission under cover of a notice that says that everyone has agreed to both proposed orders. MR. POSSINGER: Actually, I think we submitted an amended Order on that because the original request was for 180 days. THE COURT: Yes. MR. POSSINGER: And we shortened it to 120 days. THE COURT: Yes. I think that's 2571 or something like that. You did submit an amended Order on shortening it to a date in July.

MR. POSSINGER: Okay. THE COURT: And so if everyone is willing -- yes, And that, just a moment, extends the deadline through 2571. and including July 27, 2018. And so is there any objection to my entering 2571-1 as presented or do you want a chance to circle around with everybody again? MR. PECK: Your Honor, James Peck of Morrison & Foerster. We filed a limited objection to the relief requested under 365(d)(4.) It was essentially a cross-reference to issues raised in the motion of the PBA Funds for payment of rent. As a consequence of the resolution of that, we withdraw all objections to the entry of the Order extending for 120 days to the July date. And so at least from our perspective, there's no issue in entering the Order as presented. THE COURT: Thank you. MR. PECK: Thank you. THE COURT: Does anyone else who spoke to that motion have any objection to my entering that Order? Seeing no hands raised, I will then enter the 2571-1 Order today, and I will await submission of the clean iteration of the negotiated Order resolving the rent payment And I will also anticipate the -- Mr. Friedman, is motion.

It's an instrumentality. 5 THE COURT: Yes. 6 MR. POSSINGER: But it's not a debtor. And it's with 7 its bond creditors. 8 THE COURT: Very well then. So I'll just await the 9 clean Order resolving the motion for payment of rent. And I 10 thank you all for your hard and effective work with each 11 other. 12 MR. POSSINGER: Thank you, Your Honor. 13 THE COURT: Thank you. And so I think that that has taken us through our 14 15 calendar. There are certain matters that are adjourned as 16 detailed in the agenda to the April Omni, and we've agreed to 17 a status report at the June Omni on the UAW and SEIU and 18 everybody else, the labor issues. 19 And I will anticipate a further update on the PREPA 20 financing issue at or before the March 27 argument date on the 21 preliminary injunction motion practice. 22 Is there anything else that we should take up 23 together this afternoon? 24 MR. POSSINGER: Nothing that I'm aware of, Your 25 Honor.

THE COURT: Well, I thank you all. I particularly want to thank the court staff here in Puerto Rico and in New York for all of their work in support of these cases, and particularly for the arrangements for today. I hope that everyone will be able to travel both safely and promptly, to the extent we all need to travel, and I will look forward to seeing some combination of everyone the next time I have occasion to see some combination of everyone. Keep well. MR. POSSINGER: Thank you. (At 1:39 PM, proceedings concluded.)
